SATURDAY

Gateshead revisited

Olympic athlete Brendan Foster, running on his home ground, carries local and national hopes with him in the Schweppes International Cross-Country today, six laps of a grueling Gateshead course. But Foster faces stiff competition from other Olympic athletes. Grandstand (BBC1 12.15) covers the entire race, and also features the RAC Rally, which Radio 2 is covering regularly until its finish on Tuesday night.

● The Dr Who Appreciation Society voted Pyramids of Mars the most popular adventure of 1975. It's being shown again (5.50 BBC1) as one long episode, the first of three Dr Who adventures with Sarah Jane being repeated before Christmas.

Doctor Who: Tales of the Tardis

8.00pm BBC4 Catch up via iPlayer

Well, this is a nice little bonus – ahead of the finale this coming Saturday, we find the Doctor (Ncuti Gatwa) and Ruby Sunday (Millie Gibson) together in an episode of this reflective spin-off. As fans will know, this sweetly sentimental series with its magical and fable-like qualities has, in the past, delivered something akin to Radio 4's The Reunion in space, so expect similar here.

Following it at 9.15pm is another airing for Talking Doctor Who, a David Tennant-hosted retrospective, the highlight of which is his reaction to behind-the-scenes footage from Tom Baker's regeneration into Peter Davison, the man who would eventually become his father-in-law.

9.15 Talking Doctor Who

RT First shown last year as part of the 60th anniversary celebrations of Doctor Who, David Tennant looks back through the BBC archives to tell the story of the Doctor's classic era. Featuring rarely seen interviews and clips covering William Hartnell's first incarnation right through to the seventh Doctor, Sylvester McCoy. David also compares his experiences with the actors who came before him. Watch now on iPlayer. See page 88.
